Venice panel approves revised city utility tax

An ordinance setting an alternative proposed rate for the city of Venice's utility tax was approved at Tuesday's City Council meeting. The alternative tax replaces the city's utility tax. Because of utility deregulation, the new taxes have been enacted by communities throughout the state. The new tax is based on a per-kilowatt fee, instead of the flat percentage of the old tax. However, state laws require that the changes be revenue-neutral, meaning it should produce the same amount of revenue for the city.

The new tax rates range from .5188 cents per kilowatt hour for customers using 2,000 kilowatts or less per month to .3 cents per kilowatt hour for major industrial users. The average residence uses between 1,500-2,000 kilowatt-hours per month.

The ordinance was approved 5-0. Three aldermen, Lena Bell, Ricky Williams and Celestine Williams, were absent.

In other business, handicapped parking spaces were approved for 516 Third St. and 108 Bacon Ave.

Man charged with robbing local Hardee's

A Granite City man was charged with armed robbery Tuesday for holding up a Hardee's restaurant late Monday.

Darren K. Irby, 25, of the 2600 block of Guth Street in Granite City, stands accused of robbing the fast-food restaurant, located at 2642 Madison Ave.

Police reports indicated Irby approached a cashier at about 10 p.m. and told the employee he had a gun. Irby escaped with more than $100.

Witnesses helped identify Irby and police tracked him down a short time later. He was arrested without incident at McCambridge Avenue and Edwardsville Road after police stopped a cab in which he was riding. Irby remained in Granite City police custody as of Tuesday. Bail was set at $95,000.

Honoring vets

Local groups honor those who served

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

While the prospects of more military action against Iraq trouble Washington, local veterans gathered Wednesday to honor those who served.

Members of several local veterans groups including Tri-City American Legion Post 118, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and AMVETS assembled at the Greater Granite City Area War Memorial Park at Madison and Niedringhaus for a few remarks and presentations of the colors.

Veteran James Taylor thanked those who came out on the cold, windy morning; most were familiar faces, men and women who also pay their respects to the fallen on Memorial Day.

"As a veteran, all of us need to stand up for ourselves," said veteran Ken Wallace. "We've had a lot of comrades pass away who protected our flag. We need to remember each and every one of them. Those that didn't pass away that don't get around quite as well as they used to they also need to be touched (and) remembered in our prayers."

"I'm proud to see we do have a good crowd out here to represent Granite City, and I'd like to see this grow," he said.

The area's World War I veterans have all passed on, Taylor said, but veterans survive from more recent wars. He identified each successive war in which men and women fought, including World War II, Korea, Vietnam, Grenada, Panama and the Persian Gulf, and offered applause for each group of veterans.

Members of various local veterans organizations line up Wednesday morning at Greater Granite City War Memorial Park to honor their fellow former members of the armed services. Wednesday marked the 80th anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended World War I on Nov. 11, 1918. The ceremony was one of hundreds across the country which remembered the sacrifices soldiers made to maintain American democratic ideals.

Lawsuit decision expected quickly

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A motion to move an annexation lawsuit between St. Clair County and the city of Madison to Madison County is expected to be decided in the near future.

At a hearing last week before Associate Judge Scott Mansfield, attorneys for the city and county argued over the change of venue.

At a special Madison City Council meeting Wednesday, City Attorney Casper Nighoghossian updated the council on the lawsuit, which alleges that eight annexations by the city of Madison between Feb. 13, 1996 and June 2, 1998 are illegal because the properties were not contiguous to Madison. Some of the disputed property includes overlapping annexations by Fairmont City.

He said Mansfield took the case under advisement and would not render a final ruling on the change of venue until he had seen copies of proposed orders submitted by both sides. Nighoghossian said he planned to file a copy of the proposed order today.

He argued that that because Madison City Hall is located in Madison County, and that votes on the annexations in question took place in Madison County, that the suit should be transferred to the 3rd Circuit.

GUEST COLUMN

Remember the heroes on special day

By Harold L. "Butch" Miller

Democracy reigns on lands consecrated by the sacrifices of ordinary men and women who served in the U.S. armed forces. We call these special people veterans.

On a day that marks the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918, the end of World War I, we pay tribute to all of those who did their duty as patriots. It's our moral duty to make them feel appreciated on Veterans Day.

Start with members of your family who either served or currently are serving in the armed forces. Call your family members, as I will call my son, Craig, an officer in the U.S. Marine Corps, and say, "Thanks for serving. I'm proud of you."

Next, bid a happy Veterans Day to those in your community who are, or were, a part of the brave legacy of the American patriot.

Then make plans to attend Veterans Day commemorative events in your community. The more people turn out for your Veterans Day parades and memorial services, the more profound the debt of gratitude to those who served.

Finally, remember veterans in your prayers, especially those who use wheelchairs and artificial limbs as a result of battle scars that will never heal, as well as those who were taken captive and for those who remain unaccounted.

Veterans ask little of their country, but give everything they have. The least we can do is give them our sincerest thank you for a job well done.

Our children and grandchildren will follow our example. They will learn to respect and to appreciate a group of special Americans worthy of praise but so modest about service that they settle for a simple thank you.

Veterans are common Americans of uncommon valor with devotion to duty. They are men and women willing to spill their blood if it means others won't be forced to spill theirs. The neighborhood baker who once served on an U.S. Navy warship. The beat cop who once kept the peace as an MP at an overseas military installation. The physician who pulled bullets out of wounded troops and sewed them back together. The clergyman who issued last rites to fallen patriots and inspirational words to the battle-weary.

Veterans like these in your community include Legionnaires in an American Legion post who help veterans readjust to civilian life. They remind everyone of the priceless nature of Old Glory, operate programs that instill values in all children and youth and ensure that veterans recovering in the Department of Veterans Affairs hospital know that the community at large cares about them.

My comrades in American Legion posts in your area could use a few more good men and women, eligible veterans, to strengthen our community service and elevate our clout in Washington.

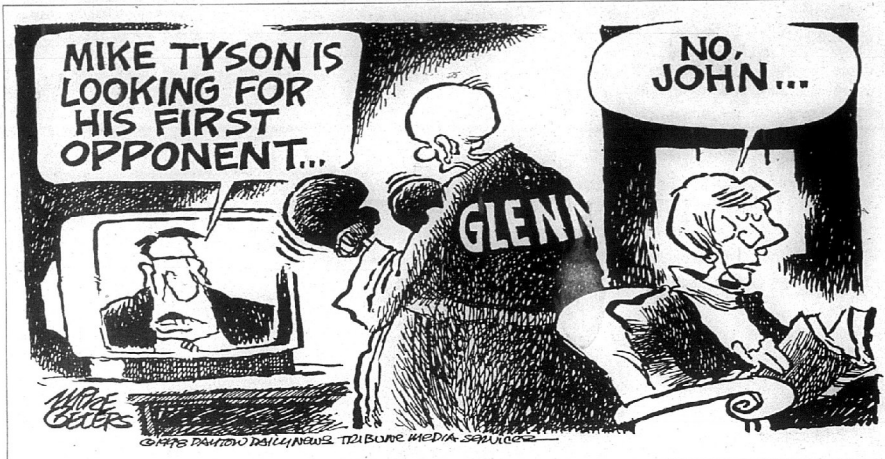

When you think about it, there are perhaps thousands of veterans in your community — family, friends, acquaintances and other readers of this newspaper — who deserve thanks on this special day.

If you appreciate the freedom we as Americans enjoy today, then you realize why it's important to honor those who sacrificed for that freedom.

That's what Veterans Day is all about.

Miller is national commander of the American Legion. A resident of Woodbridge, Va., Miller is a U.S. Army veteran of the Vietnam War.

Illinois farmers need help badly

By Richard Durbin

Illinois is one of our country's most important agricultural contributors. Illinois farmland, which accounts for about 27 million acres, is considered some of the most productive in the world.

More than 76,000 farm families in the state produce corn, soybeans, wheat, beef, pork, dairy products and specialty crops. Illinois exports more than $3.4 billion worth of agricultural products every year.

The state's agribusiness activity is vibrant. Throughout Illinois, agricultural processing employs thousands of people. In addition, researchers at the University of Illinois and other institutions continue to provide answers to some of the most common, as well as the most complex, agricultural questions we face.

With that said, the current downturn of agricultural prices is troubling, not just for the Illinois economy, but for the farm families who work to ensure that the state of Illinois, the country and the world enjoy a safe and abundant food supply.

This fall, I have had visits from many agriculture groups in the state. I have heard how farm income will fall to $42.5 billion in 1998, 20 percent lower than 1996, and 43 percent below the five-year average. Meanwhile, total farm debt in 1998 has been estimated at $172 billion, the highest level since 1989. This decline in farm income could lead to massive job loss in the agriculture sector and in agribusiness — not to mention what it will do to our family farms.

In September, I hosted a roundtable discussion with 15 farmers in Springfield to talk about the crisis in our state and across the nation. It was clear during the meeting that falling prices, the uncertainty of foreign markets — particularly in Asia and Russia — and poor weather conditions have contributed significantly to a severe economic crisis for our nation's farmers.

With such low prices, I worry that farmers will not be able to survive. Whether this means leaving farming altogether or simply not being able to make basic payments, I fear a crisis in rural America. And farmers won't be the only ones hurt by this crisis.

In the past several weeks, two of the world's largest agricultural equipment manufacturers, Deere and Company based in Moline, and CASE Corporation based in Racine, Wis., have announced plans to reduce production and cut jobs. Both companies claim declining farm prices have reduced demand for their equipment. When American agriculture suffers, the effect is widespread, from equipment manufacturers to processors to local businesses.

Congress needs to demonstrate strong leadership in the face of this economic crisis. There are some short-term solutions that have already been considered by the U.S. Senate, including removing the cap on marketing loans and extending their terms, authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to make emergency storage payments to farmers to encourage the use of market assistance loans and replenishing the disaster reserve. These should continue to be options to improve economic conditions and regain stability.

In October, I joined 42 of my

"I worry that farmers will not be able to survive. Whether this means leaving farming altogether or simply not being able to make basic payments, I fear a crisis in rural America. And farmers won't be the only ones hurt by this crisis... When American agriculture suffers, the effect is widespread..."

senate colleagues in voting against the Agriculture Appropriations Conference Report. This measure simply underfunded emergency assistance for farmers having severe losses and record-low prices. President Bill Clinton vetoed this legislation because of these shortcomings.

As a result of this veto, Congress and the Clinton Administration came together to hash out a compromise. A farm relief package was included in the recently enacted budget agreement that will address the severe economic downturn in rural America.

This package includes $6 billion for emergency assistance to farmers, 40 percent more than the vetoed bill. Specifically, it includes funding for crop loss and economic loss due to low commodity prices and targeted tax relief, including acceleration of the health insurance tax deduction for the self-employed, to 100 percent by 2003.

Illinois can expect to receive $319 million for producers as a result of this agreement, $133 million more than the vetoed bill.

There are some administrative fixes that can also help lessen the economic pain for farmers. I'm leading a bipartisan effort to convince Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman to make pork available as food aid to foreign countries and for domestic feeding programs.

This is one way to help reverse falling pork prices caused by market glut and financial crisis in Russia and Asia, important Illinois and U.S. trading partners. Congress won't be able to single-handedly solve this serious economic crisis in rural America this year. It will take a coordinated effort both in Washington and on farms across the country. We should act in a comprehensive and bipartisan fashion. We should explore short-term fixes, like lifting the cap on marketing loans, as well as long-term solutions, like tax fairness and expanded trade opportunities.

We should stand up for the men and women in rural America and let them know that Congress and the administration will work with them to help alleviate some of the economic uncertainty they face.

To do anything less would be a disservice to our farmers and American agriculture.

Dick Durbin, D-III, is a U.S. senator.

Board OKs business licenses over protests

Police Department recommended against both

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Pontoon Beach Village Board may have to rethink its policy of not granting business licenses based solely on prior criminal felony records.

At Tuesday's meeting, the Board approved two licenses despite negative recommendations by the police department. Specific information on the cases was unavailable.

All business license applications are reviewed by the police department, and applicants with criminal convictions have been denied as a matter of policy by the board.

However, Village Attorney Brian Polinske said a prior criminal history is "not sufficient" reason to deny a business license.

After the meeting, Polinske said that lying about that criminal history on the business license application could be grounds for denying the license.

In both cases Tuesday, the board split 4-2, with Trustees Bob Vincent and Bob Abel both voting against the licenses, citing the police department's report.

Both applications had been tabled from previous meetings. In the first application approved, William Coats of Granite City had applied for a business license to operate a cable television and satellite contracting business at 3074 Illinois 111.

In his application he cited a 1979 felony conviction.

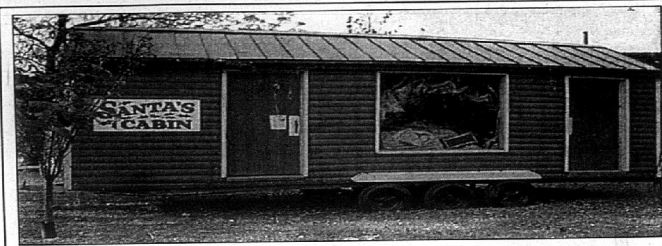

However, Trustee Randy Presswood argued for granting the license, claiming that someone should not be punished for something done so long ago.

Coats, who attended Tuesday's meeting, also argued in favor of the license.

"I paid my debt to society. I really don't feel I should pay it again to this board," he said. In the second case, the Board granted a business license to Paul Vernon Jr. and Walter Grupco, both of Granite City, for an electronics store at 4001 Pontoon Road.

The application showed a prior conviction for Vernon. That license had also been held up because of concerns about the building. However, the two said they had cleaned up or corrected most of the problems at the site, and building inspectors said they believed the building was generally in compliance with building codes.

Ice skating lesson offered

The Granite City Park District is offering ice skating lessons for adults and children four years and up. Resident registration is now under way at the Wilson Park office. Classes are held each Saturday morning. Session I began Nov. 7 and runs through Dec. 12. Session II begins Jan. 2 and runs through Feb. 6. Cost is $20 for park residents and $33 for non-residents.

The park district will have professional ice skating instructors Tammy Bungarner and Vince Duiguid as class instructors this year.

Tammy Bungarner started ice skating at age five as a recreational skater with her family. Her love for the sport has continued to grow through the year. She trained here at the Granite City rink at North County Complex in St. Louis, and briefly at Brentwood.

Vince Duiguid started skating at age five and has been actively pursuing figure skating for over 11 years. He holds an Adult Bronze Medal freestyle and is continuing to train to earn his gold level.

Caudron named new school board president

Reorganization may also be required in April

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

The Granite City School Board reorganized Tuesday night, and named member John Caudron president of the board.

The board reorganized in accordance with state instructions, naming a new president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. The board may have to undergo a new reorganization after the April elections.

Caudron took over presidential duties from Jim Noeth. Ron Dillard was named vice president, Jeff Parker was named secretary and replaced Eldin Rea. Pete Novacek was named treasurer.

The board also approved continuing with Bill Schooley as legal counsel. Board meetings will remain the same, and are scheduled for 7 p.m. the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. Members of the new board also approved continuing all school district policies as they are written.

Superintendent Steve Balen said that any resident interested in running for school board in the April 13 general election may now circulate nominating petitions. Nominating papers may be filed with the board secretary beginning Jan. 25.

In other business, the board approved the annual Christmas basket collection at the senior high school. The Student Council has set a goal of collecting $5,000, which will be used to buy Christmas items for baskets intended for needy people.

If the students reach this goal, they will receive two early dismissal days in December.

Law aims at game bird baiting

Maximum fine increased to $15,000 under new federal law

President Clinton has signed into law a measure that increases the maximum fine for migratory game bird baiting.

The legislation, called the Migratory Bird Treaty Reform Act of 1998, would make it illegal to hunt over a baited area if "...the person knows or reasonably should know that the area is a baited area," and would make it illegal to "...place or direct the placement of bait on or adjacent to an area for the purpose of causing, inducing, or allowing any person to take or attempt to take any migratory game bird by the aid of baiting on or over the baiting area." The legislation increases the maximum fine for baiting from $500 to $15,000 and/or jail time of up to one year. The new law takes effect immediately.

Nature Resources Department Director Brent Manning, chair of the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies Ad Hoc Committee on Baiting and a member of the IAWA Executive Committee, pushed for the changes. He says the changes bring common sense to natural resource protection.

"Even today we have people in harm's way, in Bosnia and various conflicts around the world," Taylor said.

"We all know our armed services are being cut back. But if you look at the headlines today, we're again sending our people out into harm's way," he said, referring to more possible conflict with Iraq over terms from the 1991 Gulf War.

"All remember when they raised their hand that day they enlisted to serve God and country. Each member here that wore the uniform and served put their life on the line. A lot of their comrades didn't come back," he said.

Immediately following the ceremony, members of AMVETS Post 31 and the auxiliary set a wreath at the war memorial at Granite City Hall. Last Saturday about 15 people from the several veterans groups placed more than 500 flags on graves in St. John's Cemetery on Nameoki Road and Maryville Road.

•Rapist

Dennis N. Rabbitt, 42, of Cedar Hill, Mo., is suspected of being the so-called "South Side Rapist." He was charged in Madison County Circuit Court Tuesday with aggravated criminal sexual assault for the suspected rape of a Collinsville woman Feb. 5, 1995.

He has been the target of a nationwide manhunt since being charged over the weekend in Missouri with the rape of a Jefferson County woman. He was last reported seen in southwest Missouri.

"We conducted new DNA tests, and it's a 100 percent match," St. Louis Police Chief Ronald Henderson said Monday.

DNA tests linked the Jefferson County man to a string of at least 16 rapes in the St. Louis area over the past 10 years, St. Louis police say.

Rabbitt is accused in charges filed by the Madison County

State's Attorney's Office of assaulting a 34-year-old woman in the bedroom of her home in the 800 block of Johnson Road while he was armed with a gun.

The woman's son slept in the next room as the attack took place, Collinsville police said.

The case is one of at least two in the Metro East linked to Rabbitt.

Stephanee Smith, office administrator for the Madison County State's Attorney William Haine, said charges are not expected to be filed in a second attack in Collinsville because the elderly woman involved has since died.

DNA results from St. Louis show there is only a one in 5.5 billion chance that the South Side Rapist could be anyone but Rabbitt. The St. Louis Circuit Attorney's Office, which had asked for extra test results Monday, is reviewing the city cases linked to the serial rapist. Charges are expected within a few days, St. Louis police said.

Media reports had dubbed the attacker the South Side Rapist because 10 of the victims lived in the relatively crime-free neighborhoods of south St. Louis. But evidence has linked him to attacks since 1988 in St. Louis and Jefferson counties, as well as the cities of St. Charles, Arnold and in Illinois.

Henderson said police detective Randy Sasenger broke the investigation, which had long befuddled teams of detectives.

Following a tip, Sasenger found Rabbitt on Oct. 29 and asked for a saliva swab. DNA test can be run on a swab, providing an easy way for police to identify suspects.

Rabbitt apparently fled the area a few days later. Police got the DNA match on Friday and since then have been looking for him.

The Associated Press contributed information to this story.

ACT's Boyd named Hagnauer winner

Roger Boyd, night supervisor for the Agency for Community Transit, is the most recent employee to be chosen as the recipient of the Nelson Hagnauer Excellence in Service Award.

Boyd, who began his career with ACT soon after its creation in 1965, is being recognized for more than 13 years of outstanding service.

For his first years with ACT, Boyd worked as a night-time, door-to-door driver and was frequently the person who answered emergency calls in ACT's early days. Following his time as a driver, he was appointed night supervisor.

In this capacity, he is responsible for overseeing the crew that fuels and cleans all the buses in the district's fixed-route and paratransit fleet.

"I'm often approached by people who compliment the district's service and make a point of telling me how clean they think our buses are," said MCT Chairman Ron Selph, mayor of Granite City. "Those positive comments are a direct result of the care and attention that Roger Boyd and his crew put into their jobs."

The nature of Boyd's current position keeps him and his crew working on the buses outside, from 5 p.m. until 3:30 a.m., regardless of the weather conditions.

While they have previously hand-washed all of the vehicles, MCT's expanded fleet now has more than 100 buses, making hand-washing an impractical option. The new garage features an automated bus washer that will make the task a little easier.

While Boyd is being recognized for his on-going commitment to providing the highest levels of service on the job, there are numerous specific occasions throughout his career with the Transit District where he has demonstrated the depth of this commitment.

One particular incident during his time as an ACT driver, when he came upon a car on fire with a father and child trapped inside.

Boyd took the extinguisher from his vehicle and managed to put the fire out, then pulled the passengers in the car to safety. Co-workers noted that this quick action and desire to help, coupled with his attitude after the incident that he didn't do anything unusual, is indicative of the type of person Boyd is.

The Transit District District's employees nominate co-workers they believe should be considered for the Nelson Hagnauer Award, and it's clear that they recognize the special qualities that make Roger Boyd so deserving of his honor, Selph said.

In recognition of Boyd's commitment to service, Selph presented him with $100 savings bond and an award certificate.

Madison County Transit introduced the awards program in July to recognize employees who go the extra mile terms of providing excellent service, both on and off the job.

Boyd, a long-time MCT employee, has been a part of MCT for many years and is committed to delivering excellent service to MCT's riders. He currently serves as night supervisor for the district, directing maintenance operations for the district's 100-bus fleet.

Gray leaves prison walls, vows to prove innocence

Alton resident awaits retrial from '78 case

David A. Gray took his first bath in 20 years Friday. It was a long one.

"They don't have any bathtubs in jail," he said Friday evening.

During a telephone interview, Gray seemed subdued as he discussed his newfound, but limited, freedom.

He was released from Madison County Jail at 3:30 p.m. Friday on strict, 24-hour house arrest to live with his mother, Lydia, in the 900 block of Riley Avenue in Alton.

He won't be able to venture far as he awaits retrial in an Alton rape and attempted murder case.

"He has an ankle bracelet, and there will be a transmitter in the house, so if he gets too far away, it will signal an alarm," Assistant State's Attorney Jim Buckley said.

The monitoring system is the strictest available to county authorities, he said.

Gray, 46, was convicted in 1978 of the rape, attempted murder, and robbery of an Alton woman. Recent DNA testing ordered by his attorneys eliminated his connection to evidence found at the rape scene, prompting Associate Circuit Judge Ann Callis to call for a new trial.

Callis said she signed an order granting Gray's release earlier Friday. The conditions are the same ones she offered Gray in early October, when he refused to accept monitoring and opted to stay in jail.

Gray said he changed his mind when a Texas college that he has been corresponding with said it would send information only to his home.

"I'm trying to get my courses together to finish up law school," he said.

He is 14 hours away from a master's degree at Roosevelt University in Chicago. Next, he wants to get a paralegal certificate from Blackstone School of Law near Dallas, then get a law degree from Roosevelt, he said.

His legal studies would be applied to getting his conviction overturned, he said.

There was no large family celebration Friday night, he said, because he is trying to save stress on his mother.

On Friday night, he spent a lot of time talking with his mother, his son, Corey, and three nieces and nephews. He admitted the smaller children running around the house had him "a little wired."

Gray spent most of the last 20 years in Pontiac Correctional Center until he transferred last month to Madison County. He still has 10 years to serve on his original sentence of 60 years.

Gray said he is holding out hope that the terms of his release will be altered to allow him to travel to Cook County. He said he has talked to both The Salvation Army and the Safer Foundation about participating in their social reintegration programs in Chicago to help him get back into society.

The State's Attorney's Office has appealed Callis' decision granting Gray a new trial, and that aspect of the case is probably more than a year from being decided, Buckley said Friday.

Meanwhile, Alton police have reopened the 1978 case to try to gather new evidence for the retrial. State's Attorney William Haine said he will decide whether to continue with the case.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Recently a woman came to this office and indicated that her ex-husband had stopped paying child support several months earlier. The couple had been divorced in 1990, and he was ordered to pay $400 per month as child support for two children. He had paid faithfully until late 1995, but due to his financial reversals, he stopped paying child support at that time. Furthermore, he became very sporadic in exercising his visitation.

The mother of the children wanted to know if she should terminate his visitation based on the fact that he was no longer paying child support. In the original divorce decree, she was ordered to allow him visitation every other weekend, two weeks in the summer, and alternating legal holidays. She had continued to comply with the visitation order even during the time period when he was no longer paying child support. Her question was whether she needed to continue granting visitation in the absence of child support.

Illinois law provides that a party must comply with the terms of a divorce (dissolution of marriage). If a mother is granted custody and the father is allowed visitation, it is incumbent upon the mother to continue to grant visitation no matter what the circumstances. Only a court has the authority to change a visitation schedule.

So therefore, in the case at hand, the mother could not unilaterally terminate visitation simply because the father was no longer paying child support. His obligation to pay child support and her obligation to grant visitation were independent of each other. He could not stop paying child support because she was not granting visitation, and likewise, she could not terminate visitation based on his failure to pay child support.

Thus, in the case noted above, the mother's only remedy was to take the father back to court in an effort to collect back child support. She could ask the court to hold him in contempt and ask that an Order of Withholding be placed on his wages in order to collect the child support obligation. She could not take it upon herself to cut off his visitation to force him to comply with the child support obligation. The lesson here is that a party to a divorce should never make a unilateral decision to act contrary to the terms of the original dissolution of marriage.

Lady beetles can cause problems

The multi-colored lady beetle seen congregating on houses and buildings in Southern Illinois.

The species was introduced in the eastern United States as a biological control for aphid and scale insects and it has spread throughout the eastern United States. This beetle inhabits various woody plants, such as pecans, white pine, shrubs, and roses.

This year is a particularly bad year for this insect because a mild winter has resulted in a high population of aphids and scale for its diet. Although they are beneficial, these insects can become a nuisance this time of year, when the adult beetle searches for a place to hibernate overwinter.

Houses and buildings are a favorite place for the beetle to choose, where thousands of adults may congregate looking for a warm place to hibernate. There is very little a homeowner can do when this happens. Insecticides are often ineffective at providing control, so preventative measures need to be taken.

Make sure window and doorscreens are intact, and siding and window frames be sealed with a quality caulk.

BBB urges caution with organizations

The Better Business Bureau urges senior citizens who are considering setting up living trusts to use caution when dealing with North American Senior Association, All American Senior Association, Senior Information Center, and National Alliance of Senior Americans.

A living trust holds assets to be distributed after death, in most cases avoiding probate. Such assets can include investments, savings and titles to cars and homes.

Consumers have reported to the BBB that they are contacted by phone or letter by a representative of one of the companies if an appointment is arranged, a salesperson discusses memberships in the organization, which may include discounted travel services, prescriptions, and limited, pre-paid legal services, which could include a living trust. Membership costs range from $495 to $895. An attorney then contacts the consumer if he or she wants a living trust. Some of the companies have solicited in Tennessee, Michigan and Indiana, in addition to Missouri and Illinois, according to consumers calling the BBB. Two of these organizations, the NASA, of 1819 Clarkston Rd., Ste. 301, Chesterfield, Mo., and 805 W. Hwy 50, O'Fallon, Ill., and Advanced Marketing Concepts II, which does business as Senior Information Center at the O'Fallon address, have been sued by the attorneys general in Oregon and Illinois.

One complainant asked for a refund from NASA on behalf of her 87-year-old grandmother. The company told the BBB they would rescind the contract and refund the customer's money. However, the granddaughter states NASA did not follow through with their resolution as it was stated to the BBB.

Two members of the three-member boards of directors of AASA and NASA are the same, according to annual reports filed in 1998 with the Missouri Secretary of State's office.

End to area's drought for state title now rests with spikers

For supporters of area high school sports, there was a lot of head shaking going on as our teams kept dropping from state contention.

In football, no team survived past the second round. In boys soccer, for the first time in the 27-year history of the state series, no area team was among the eight finalists — and that's even with the soccer playoffs now being a two-class system.

What's going on?

I think it's too early to say a trend is developing. But it still grates you that no team from southwestern Illinois was in contention for either a football or soccer championship.

There was much hope coming into the season in football. The Southwest Conference was expected to be loaded, with Belleville East and new-and-improved East St. Louis heading up the league. However, it turned out that Edwardsville and Collinsville battled it out for league supremacy, going to the last regular-season game before Edwardsville escaped with a 7-6 victory. By the way, the announced crowd of 7,000 was a bit high as we found out from school officials later on. The paid crowd was actually in the mid-5,000 range.

Even so, the league sent what I believe to be an unprecedented four teams into the playoffs. Only East St. Louis survived the first round, but that was against league foe Collinsville. Both Edwardsville and Belleville East went down big time in the first round.

East St. Louis, a six-time state champion, was then knocked off convincingly by Carey-Grove in the second round.

Mater Dei and Jerseyville also made it to the second round before losing to Nashville and Metamora, respectively.

There are no more area teams left in the football playoffs. So, the area is left without a football state champion for the seventh straight year. East St. Louis last won a state title in 1991.

It appears the rest of the state is catching up and surpassing the area in soccer. Edwardsville was a surprise second-place finisher in the state last year, and Collinsville also surprised everyone by placing second in 1996. There were no surprise teams this season although Collinsville made its usual late charge, getting to the super-sectional before being upended by East Moline 1-0 on a cold, wet Tuesday night in Springfield. With the Collinsville loss, it marked the first time that an area team has not been among the finalists at the state soccer tournament.

Belleville Althoff had a chance of keeping the string going, but the Crusaders bowed to Carbondale 1-0 in the Columbia Class A Super-Sectional.

The area is without a state championship since 1992 when Collinsville won its fourth title and its second in a row. Ten-time champion Granite City hasn't been back to the Big Show since 1994 when it placed second. The Warriors went down unceremoniously this season by losing their first-round game to Alton in what has to be one of the all-time biggest playoff soccer upsets in area history. The Redbirds have won two quarters of the Granite 7-0 during the regular season before winning on penalty kicks in the playoffs.

While the boys' side of state success was disappointing this season, there is still hope from the girls. Two perennial powers, Belleville West and Breese Mater Dei, are still in the running for volleyball championships. Red Bud is also among the Class A eight finalists in the state volleyball tournament at Illinois State University in Normal.

West is expected to have a rougher time in bringing home a trophy than Mater Dei.

In other fall sports, area teams and players really didn't distinguish themselves at the state level.

The Belleville West girls tennis team fared the best, placing ninth. The Maroons were led by the doubles team of Lindsay McMillin and Lauren Carey, which bowed out in the quarterfinals of the consolation round.

Edwardsville placed 20th in Class AA girls cross country. The Tigers were led by Amy Semith, who was 16th. Mater Dei was 17th in Class A, with Mandy Kuhl leading the way by

SUE kickers net NCAA bid

Special to the Journal

Perhaps the third time is the charm.

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville women's soccer team learned earlier this week that it had earned its third NCAA bid in the last six years and the second in the last three.

This year's 16-team bracket includes two schools from each of the nation's eight regions for women's soccer. SIUE is a member of the Central Region and has hosting duties for the first-round game against

Coach hopes to end first-round woes

Southern Indiana. The game is set for Saturday at 1 p.m.

"Two times we've made it to the first round," SIUE coach Brian Kornesmeier said. "Now we'd like to take the next step."

The Cougars became worried about their NCAA chances after struggling this past Saturday in a 4-2 loss to eventual GLVC champion Northern Kentucky, which defeated both Southern Indiana and SIUE en route to its first GLVC title.

But with the Northern Kentucky loss being its only setback of the season to in-region teams, the NCAA Committee handed the Cougars an at-large bid in the field of 16.

SIUE, ranked No. 5 in the nation in last week's poll, enters Saturday's game with a 13-2-2 record overall. No. 7 Southern Indiana comes into the game with a 17-2-1 record.

The SIUE women's team is led in scoring by senior Janeece Friederich. The forward from St. Louis leads the Cougars with 17 goals and nine assists. Friederich holds all of SIUE career scoring records.

The Cougars also expect some scoring punch from sophomore Michelle Montgomery (Granite City) and junior Megan Beagles (Springfield). Both have seven goals and two assists for the season.

SIUE's defense has been powered by a pair of freshmen. Tasha Siegel (Collinsville) is the team's sweeper. (See BID, Page 2B)

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY CLUB HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

TIM STEPHENSON/Press-Record

Bobby Meszaros scored 15 goals and added 17 assists last year for the Illinois Warriors of the Mississippi Valley Club Hockey Association.

Loss of goalie, hectic schedule puts possibility of repeat on ice

The Illinois Warriors will have some obstacles in defense of the Mississippi Valley Club Hockey Association championship.

Youth. Inexperience. And a schedule that will offer few breaks and little chance to mend injuries.

The MVCHA changed its conference alignments for the 1998-99 season with the addition of new clubs.

The association was divided into four divisions for its fourth year, grouping teams with more experience and depth into the North and South divisions and the new teams into the East and West divisions.

Illinois won the MVCHA championship in its first season in the league. This year, the team will head into the North Division with Alton, Alton Marquette, Bethalto Civic Memorial, Edwardsville and Roxana.

The South Division will include Collinsville, Belleville East, Belleville West, Alhambra, O'Fallon and Cahokia. The clubs in the East and West divisions are: Triad, Highland, Freeburg, Waterloo, East Alton-Wood River, Southwest and Jerseyville.

"The big change was that the schedule expanded from 15 to 22 games," Illinois Warriors president Dan Svezia said. "And now we are playing everyone in our divisions, so all of the points count toward the playoffs."

"Last year, we did a lot of preparation and scouting for each game," Svezia said. "This year, we won't have as many practice opportunities and you won't get to see other teams because you'll be playing more games."

The league will use the rinks at the new U.S. Ice Sports Complex in Fairview Heights, allowing more games to be played in a shorter time.

The Warriors first must worry about getting some experience, particularly with goalkeeping, where MVCHA all-star Robbie Slater's graduation left the biggest void.

(See REPEAT, Page 4B)

TIM STEPHENSON/Press-Record

Junior Bill Cahill is one of the players the Illinois Warriors will be counting on as they try to defend their MVCHA championship.

Peter Christofilakos scored twice — his 51st and 52nd goals of the season — to give Springfield Sacred Heart the victory over Prairie Ridge, 2-1, in the Illinois Class A Championship game.

"It was really decided on emotions," Sacred Heart coach Sam Tate said. "For one thing, it was a state championship. And the field was so bad. There were four games Friday night, two Saturday morning, two college games Saturday afternoon and then the third-place game. And it rained that whole time. I personally could barely make it across the field without falling down."

Sacred Heart coach

All three goals came in the first half. After Prairie Ridge had taken the 1-0 lead, Christofilakos scored on a dead ball to equalize, then scored a nice goal despite the muck and slop to put the Cyclones ahead for good. "We were fortunate we were able to do that," Tate said. "As the second half went along, we became more and more defensive."

Sacred Heart's arch-rival, Springfield High School, won the title last year. The two are separated by less than a mile.

"I think that it's great for the city of Springfield to win it in back-to-back years," Tate said. "It shows the quality of soccer in this area."

"A lot of people think of soccer in terms of just the St. Louis and Chicago areas. Springfield probably compares itself to Chicago more than St. Louis. We don't get respected in Springfield, the guys in Chicago don't give us any respect. Prairie Ridge is closer to the Wisconsin border than Chicago, but it was close enough. Playing a team from Chicago, these kids really wanted to win."

"For me personally, I'm really happy for the players. It's real good to see 20 players set out with a goal at the beginning of the season and fulfill that goal."

This Sacred Heart team took part in the rain-soaked Granite City Tournament of Champions this year against the best competition in the Metro East. They proved themselves then, advancing all the way to the championship game before falling to St. Louis area No. 2 DeSmet.

But Tate thinks that it was more than just the rain that aided his players in preparation for the playoffs.

"It helped the team with the number of days alone and games involved," he said. "We kept the same travel schedule on Saturday that we had in Granite City, getting up early and coming back to play the championship game at night."

"Saturday at state, we did the same thing. We went out to eat, went to see 'The Waterboy' and then went to the stadium to play."

"I think the Granite City Tournament helps in three ways. First, the preparation and endurance was great for us. Second, playing under the lights and that tremendous crowd at Granite City helped the sophomores and juniors later on with their nerves. Most important, from a talent and physical play standpoint, I told our kids after the DeSmet game that we wouldn't see anyone as good or as physical as DeSmet in our state playoffs."

Tate, a graduate of Granite City, knows the territory all too well. And like his coach and mentor, Gene Baker, has been many times before.

Coach will look to young weapons

SIUE seeks repeat of last year's success

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The 1997-98 campaign was a season to remember for the women's basketball team of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

"We had a great season," SIUE coach Wendy Hedberg said. "We were 22-8, which is the most wins we have ever had. We got into the first round of postseason play."

Hedberg has Kim Lowe, a 5-foot-10 forward, returning in her front line. Lowe led the conference last year in rebounds with 11.3 per game. She also averaged 14 points per game. Hedberg looks for Lowe to provide quality senior leadership.

"Kim is the one player who has been with us for four years," Hedberg said. "Her personal goal is to do well and take the team as far as it can go. In practice, she gives 100 percent. She is a real hard worker, and that in itself, motivates other players."

Hedberg has many weapons at her disposal this year.

"Misi Clark, a sophomore, is our point guard," Hedberg said. "She led the team in scoring as a freshman with 16.4 points per game and was honorable mention all-conference. Sophomore Erica Cory averaged 8 points per game and was our best three-point shooter at 38 percent."

"April Clendenin is a senior who transferred here last year. We are looking for her to contribute now that she has been with us a year. We are hoping to get a little more out of her. Stacey Hager was also a transfer last year. She is 6-foot-2 and will probably play in the low post. With both April and Stacey, it just usually takes a year to get used to what they are doing when an athlete transfers over."

"Jill Johnson is a 5-foot-10 freshman from Highland. She will rotate in with Stacey and see time at the post position."

"Crystal Gladson is a sophomore who got a lot of experience last year. She has probably been our most improved player, and we are looking to get a lot more out of her this year. Sarah Solberger is a junior with two years of eligibility left. Audrey Plunkett is a 5-foot-8 transfer."

This year's Cougars team will be young. Nine of the 13 players on the roster are either freshmen or sophomores.

"Misi is the only sophomore who started last season, but Erica and Crystal got a lot of time as freshmen," Hedberg said. "So even though we graduated three seniors, our returning players got some important time behind them last year."

"Right now we still have four other freshmen — Amanda Buldman, Kristi Eller, Heather Hillebrenner and Beth Nicholson — that we are trying to blend in. We want to get them used to playing with each other and get some chemistry."

"I'm real happy with the team. Our bench will be good, perhaps even a little more athletic than last year. We will continue to try and push the ball up and down the court."

The Cougars played an exhibition game Wednesday night against St. Louis Goldenstar.

They start the season on the road Tuesday against the University of Missouri at Rolla.

"One of our goals is to repeat the success we had last year," Hedberg said. "We came in second in the conference tournament last year, and I know the kids are looking to win it this year and get into the NCAA Tournament."

yet has scored five goals this season. Goalkeeper Shannon Roth (Granite City) enters the postseason with a 1.03 goals against average.

SIUE previously played Southern Indiana at Ralph Korte Stadium on Oct. 17 and defeated the Screaming Eagles 2-1.

Korbesmeyer said this time around, he will have a better working knowledge of his opponent. He said the Cougars will find a way to exploit the Southern Indiana defense.

"Of course, they are thinking the same thing after our performance against Northern placing 40th.

The Mater Dei boys were 18th and Wood River 21st in Class A cross country. Derek Web was 34th for Mater Dei, but Freeburg had Tyler Krauss place 27th and Darren Pierce 28th.

Belleville East led the way in boys Class AA golf by placing 11th at state. Brent Jackson led the Lancers and area by shooting a 169, good for a tie at 27th.

"I think it's too early to say a trend is developing. But it still grates you that no team from southwestern Illinois is in contention for either a football or soccer championship."

Red Bud was the top area team in Class A golf, finishing 13th. Sophomores Sean Walls led the Musketeers with a 162.

The top area finisher was Justin Beaton, a senior at Waterloo Gibault, who shot a 180, good for a three-way tie for 13th place.

Edwardsville and Highland placed 10th and 13th, respectively, in the girls' state golf championships. Brooke Fellock (171) and Deanna Bock (176) led the way for Edwardsville. Tiffany Jakel paced Highland with a 178.

Former Maroons set up SIUE success

Rust, Scheller help spikers to 28-5 record, No. 2 seed in conference tourney

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

COLLEGE VOLLEYBALL

"The Belleville West Connection" has paid off in a big way for the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville volleyball team.

Two West graduates — senior setter Christy Scheller and sophomore outside player Lindsay Rust — have played key roles for the Cougars, who took a 28-5 record and a No. 2 seed into today's quarterfinal match against Bellarmine in the Great Lakes Valley Conference Tournament at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Scheller is one of four current SIUE players who was on the school's first NCAA Division II volleyball team in 1995. Rust, meanwhile, transferred to SIUE after spending one year at Division I Indiana State.

"We were 15-15 the first year, and after that, we've been above .500," said Cougars coach Sandy Montgomery. "We made the conference tournament every year, and we were second in our division the last two years. We had the opportunity to finish first this year, but it didn't work out. We split with (IUPUI) Fort Wayne (the No. 1 seed), but we needed to beat them twice since we lost to (Wisconsin) Parkside early in the year. We shouldn't have lost that match. They didn't even make the conference tournament."

"I'm very happy with our program. Players like Christy and Michelle Gilman have been with us four years. Then you add people like Lindsay and Ann Ulrich, and we have a lot of good individuals to go around them. You're only as good as who you recruit."

A victory in today's match would put the Cougars in the GLVC semifinals on Friday afternoon. The championship match was scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Regardless of how it finishes in the conference tourney, SIUE can advance to next week's regional tournament if it is ranked among the top four in the region. Heading into this week, the Cougars were ranked second behind Northern Michigan and ahead of GLVC rivals Northern Kentucky and IUPUI-Fort Wayne. The regional champion advances to the Division II national tourney, to be held the first week of December in Kissimmee, Fla.

"Anything can happen in the conference. We've got to play well from the beginning," Rust said. "Considering this is only our fourth year, it's been a really good season. I hadn't seen any of the teams in the conference, and it was all new to me, but the level of competition is just as good as Division I."

In her only season at Indiana State, Rust led the team in digs and aces and was second in kills. She was also named to the Missouri Valley Conference All-Newcomers Team.

"I wanted to be closer to home, and I changed my major to engineering," Rust said. "They have a good engineering program here, and they don't have one at Indiana State. Indiana State had a better record than it had had in 11 years. We made the conference tournament, which hadn't happened in a long time. They're just starting to build their program, and I'm glad to be a part of it."

At SIUE, Rust is ranked 16th in the nation in kills with 4.55 per game. Scheller is ranked 18th in assists with 12.25 per game.

"I feel more comfortable playing here, especially with Christy since we've played together before," Rust said. "I played a few (varsity) tournaments my freshman year at West as an outside, and I played at middle hitter most of my sophomore year after Shauna Vineyard got hurt. Being familiar with a setter like I am with Christy is nice because you don't have to get used to their style."

Scheller, meanwhile, is a four-year veteran, along with Gilman, Jill Stenger and Mandy Tubbs.

"We have a lot more confidence in ourselves now," Scheller said. "We were a new team, and no one expected anything of us, but now we've made a name for ourselves."

"We're really working well as a team, and Lindsay helps a lot. I was thrown into the (setter) position as a freshman, and it was scary, but it's a lot more fun now."

Scheller started playing club volleyball as a fifth-grader, first for Volleyball Training Network and then for the Untouchables. Last year she was a coach for Game Face.

"It's helped me become a better player," said Scheller, who is majoring in psychology. "Like I tell coach (Montgomery), now I understand what she's telling us. I know how frustrating it can be."

DNA tests identify rapist

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis and Jefferson County authorities said DNA tests have positively identified Dennis Rabbitt as the South Side rapist.
Tom Geiser, a spokesman for the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department, said a second round of DNA tests had come back positive, linking Rabbitt to at least nine sexual attacks in the city and as many as 20 total attacks attributed to the South Side rapist.
Geiser said police had submitted the test results to the St. Louis circuit attorney's office along with a request for at-large warrants charging Rabbitt with nine of the St. Louis rapes. He is also suspected in a pair of rapes in Collinsville, which were linked to the South Side rapist's pattern.

Geiser said charges were expected to be filed later this week. Rabbitt is apparently on the run, and police have launched a nationwide manhunt for him.
Rabbitt, 42, who has been charged with raping a woman on a High Ridge shopping center parking lot, was identified as a possible suspect in the South Side rapes after submitting a saliva swab to St. Louis police, who were investigating an attempted home invasion.

Jefferson County Sheriff Glenn Boyer said there was no DNA evidence in connection with the High Ridge case, but the victim had positively identified Rabbitt.

The independent minor league team, to be named by Illinois area baseball fans in a "Name Your Team" contest, will play in a state-of-the-art ballpark to be built in St. Clair County.

St. Louis Blues broadcaster Ken Wilson said the Gateway team will be the 11th team in the Frontier League. Wilson said the facility will be more than just a ballpark; the Pan-Am and Prairie State Games and the Salute to the Masters could also use the site.

Malls get together for Old Newsboys

By Kelly O'Brien Hugenot
Staff writer

Start with great shopping discounts, mix in a few charitable giving, music and food, then add a touch of holiday spirit and you have the recipe for Westfield Works Wonders.

People can enjoy the special evening of shopping from 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday at five locations: Crestwood Plaza, Mid Rivers Mall, Northwest Plaza, South County Center and West County Center. A $5 entry donation will be collected at mall doors.

All Westfield Works Wonders donations made that night will go toward Old Newsboys Day, a Suburban Journals fund-raising campaign that helps support more than 250 local children's charities.

"During the holiday season, everyone feels the need to support the community and charities within the community," said Sean Phillips, marketing director for Crestwood Plaza.

The event also will help kick off the holiday season, offering people a less hectic environment in which to start their Christmas shopping, he said.

Holiday shoppers will enjoy free photos with Santa, door prizes at selected stores, complimentary coat check and gift wrapping, refreshments, celeb-appearances and holiday entertainment such as strolling carolers.

Special discounts available that night include 25 percent off regularly priced merchandise at J.C. Penney's and 10 percent off at Sears.

Crestwood Plaza's stores are behind the event, knowing the more excitement they offer, the more people will participate, thus raising more money, Phillips said.

Westfield Shoppingtowns, which operates the five participating malls, chose Old Newsboys Day as the charity it would support locally through Westfield Works Wonders.

TIME to TALK

At left, Maryville Elementary School students Stephanie Kraus and Rachel Addison wait in the halls during parent-teacher conferences Tuesday morning. Also waiting is Laura Falter, who is there to talk to teachers about her grandson. Below, John and Michelle McGowan talk to kindergarten teacher Peggy Tucker, right, about their son Jacob.

Communication the key in parent-teacher talks

Instead of the noise of children in the halls at Maryville Elementary School, it was the footsteps of parents coming to see how their children were doing.

For two days this week, students throughout the Granite City School District got a holiday of sorts as parent-teacher conferences went on.

"The most important thing is the communication between teacher and parent on the academic progress of the student," said Maryville School principal Clabbie Briggs. "The parents know how the child is learning and how well they are progressing in their studies, and what the parent and teacher can do to help encourage the child."

She said the conferences can be "extremely detailed," with teachers showing parents examples of their children's work, test scores and grades.

Second-grade teacher Marti Kismet spent part of the morning talking to Gina Childs about her son, Dakota. "Communication between parents and teachers is extremely important," Kismet said. "Without the parents helping us out here in the district the children don't do nearly as well as they do with their help."

She said the most important thing is for the parents to read with the child. "Have the child read to you and you read to the child," she said.

Briggs said response to the conferences is mostly positive. "Most parents think it's very important and look forward to coming here to see how their child is doing," she said. "It's a one-on-one chance to really get to talk to a teacher about how their child is progressing."

Melissa Garrett came in Tuesday to talk to teachers about her two children, Carmine, a fifth-grader, and second-grader Natalie.

"You need to be able to talk to the teachers and know how your child is doing," she said. "These teachers are really willing to sit down and work with you, or find somebody to help you." As part of the conference, parents are also asked to fill out an internal review form, listing what they like about the school and what needs improvement. That information is used in the school's improvement plan.

The district has two conferences during the school year, the fall — where every parent is expected to attend — and the spring conferences.

Briggs said in the spring, parents may request a chance to speak with teachers, but it is not considered necessary.

Edwardsville bar owner ready to sell

Fisch: It's a great opportunity for anyone who wants to buy business

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

Nearly a year has passed since a suspicious fire destroyed The Oasis in rural Edwardsville, but the building is almost ready to be occupied again.

The building's owner, Bill Fisch, said he is renovating the former bar in hopes of selling it.

He said the building would be a business opportunity for an enterprising buyer.

"They could open it as a bar or a restaurant or with the new highway (Illinois Route 255) running by there, a convenience store," Fisch said.

Along with the old bar, Fisch is selling his entire property in the 3900 block of Edwardsville Road, including his house, which sits behind the commercial building. The property includes 2.7 acres.

Fisch, 49, said he is interested in moving closer to his job as a senior estimator and project manager for a construction company in St. Louis.

The early-morning fire broke out Nov. 28. It was investigated by the Edwardsville Fire Department, the Madison County Sheriff's Department and the Illinois State Fire Marshal's Office.

It still is categorized as suspicious, a sheriff's investigator said recently, but no charges have been filed in the case.

Fisch said the fire clearly was set in two places. The building formerly had a covered side entrance where someone set the main fire against the doorway, he said.

"They wouldn't have done anything out front. They went around to the side, where they knew they could get in and wouldn't be seen from (his house) or outside," Fisch said.

Fisch said he believed some type of incendiary device also was thrown through a window.

He said he has spent about $35,000 repairing the damage from the fire. He has owned the building for 17 years.

At the time of the fire, The Oasis had been leased for nine years to Elsie Higgins, who operated the bar. Higgins had no insurance coverage on the bar or its contents.

The exterior of the building has been repaired and repainted. A new roof has been put on.

When the interior renovation is finished, the building will have new plumbing and wiring, with everything meeting city codes, as well as a new ceiling, windows, insulation, dry wall and carpeting.

The bar itself wasn't damaged and is in place, as is the furnace. The kitchen has some fixtures in place.

Fisch said he doesn't have any plans to try to reopen The Oasis himself.

"I'm just fixing it up to sell it," he said.

He said the renovation probably would be complete by about the end of the month.

Business group honors Illinois

Gov. Jim Edgar accepted the 1998 Distinguished Performance Award recognizing Illinois as "State of the Year" from the National Alliance of Business, the leading national business organization focusing on workforce issues.

"I am truly honored to accept this award on behalf of Illinois," Edgar said. "Illinois continues to be a great place to do business because we have aggressively and creatively emphasized worker training and infrastructure development."

"We have worked with our state's companies and diverse educational institutions to prepare our workers for the jobs of the 21st century."

Edgar's accomplishments for the State of Illinois were commended by Ed Rust, chairman of NAB and CEO of State Farm Insurance Companies.

"This selection reflects the high regard of National Alliance of Business for the progress Illinois has made in building a new workforce development system to help prepare Illinois' workforce for the 21st century," he said.

"Yours is a laudable effort and deserves national recognition."

In presenting the award to Edgar, the NAB cited programs including the governor's initiative to establish Illinois Employment and Training centers across Illinois.

"Four years ago, Gov. Edgar established a one-stop career center network in Illinois to provide comprehensive employment and training services under one roof for employers and job seekers," said Robert Jones, NAB president.

"Today, 54 Illinois Employment and Training Centers are operating throughout the state, using the latest in computer and telecommunications technology to provide citizens with all of the services they need to find and qualify for employment."

Illinois was also recognized for its Industrial Training Program to help new, expanding or modernizing companies prepare their employees for more challenging technology and for welfare reforms that stress worker training and education.

The NAB's annual Distinguished Performance Awards bring national recognition to individuals, businesses and organizations.

NEWS Venice's bridge deal hits snag

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A possible agreement between McKinley Bridge bondholders and the city of Venice has hit a snag.

On Oct. 1, approximately $4.3 million in outstanding bonds on the bridge went into default.

As a worst-case scenario, the bondholders could seize the bridge. However, Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said Friday that was unlikely, and in the past, he has also said that if that happened, the city would probably wind up, taxing the new bridge owners "to death."

The city had been negotiating with bondholders, and an interest rate of 6 percent — up from 2 percent — had been proposed, but the loss of about $250,000 per year from a lease agreement will have a negative effect on the negotiations.

Echols said a lease agreement with the Terminal Railroad Association giving them access to the bridge expired in October, and TRRA notified the city recently saying they would not renew the lease.

That will have an effect on the bridge's income and its ability to pay off the bonds.

"We're going to have to go back to the figuring," Echols said.

City and bridge officials said one of the reasons the bonds are in default is the increasing cost of maintaining the bridge.

The city has doubled the work and inspection crew at a cost of about $750,000 per year.

"When you're dealing with a structure that old, God, you know what another problem will crop up," he said.

Earlier this year, Echols said the bridge deck on the Missouri side could fail within the next five years without a major renovation, effectively shutting down the bridge.

Echols said the city was still moving ahead on plans to borrow approximately $15 million to pay off the outstanding bonds and make improvements to the bridge.

Combined with federal and state money already earmarked for repairs, Echols said they could do about $21 million in repairs.

The City Council has approved seeking a traffic study, the first step in obtaining the loan, but has not picked a firm to conduct the study yet.

Another hurdle is finding a bank or other financial institution that would underwrite the project.

"How successful we're going to be with this, I don't know, but we're still searching," Echols said.

Colds avoidable with extra care

It's the time of the year when upper respiratory infections — pooled under the term "common cold" — are a concern to most people.

Statistics show that three out of four Americans catch two colds a year; one out of four catches at least four colds a year.

And despite the advances in medical science and technology, there is no cure in sight for this group of minor illnesses caused by up to 200 different viruses.

But take heart, colds can be prevented.

"As germs can be spread through hand-to-hand contact, doctors recommend frequent hand washing with soap and water," according to David Williams, M.D., senior vice president and corporate medical director at Alliance Blue Cross Blue Shield.

"You are more likely to catch a cold from the viruses you pick up on your hands than from breathing the air when someone coughs or sneezes."

"But don't hesitate to avoid sharing space with people who have colds."

Dr. Williams recommends that a person use tissues rather than handkerchiefs and dispose of them properly to avoid spreading colds.

Most doctors recommend that you stay at home and rest in a warm room when symptoms are at their worst.

"Slow down and give your body a chance to regroup," Dr. Williams said. "And drink plenty of fluids. It will help break up phlegm and relieve congestion."

And if you have a fever, drink even more fluid and get more rest.

Over-the-counter pain relievers can work on aches and pains that accompany a nasty cold. Treat aches and fever with aspirin, acetaminophen or ibuprofen.

But be sure and treat specific symptoms. If congestion, a decongestant will help. If postnasal drip is making you cough at night, a cough medicine may help you sleep.

"But be careful," Dr. Williams warns. "By combining cold remedies, the drugs may conflict with each other and not relieve any symptoms."

"For example, if you take an expectorant and an antihistamine at the same time, the first acts to loosen mucus and the second dries it."

'Elizabeth' takes a new approach to Virgin Queen

The Virgin Queen is back, but you may not recognize her, because the new film 'Elizabeth' cuts a revisionist historical swath through a well-worn patch of Britain's past.

Part modern woman ahead of her time, part a sleepy-eyed and not always willing sovereign, Cate Blanchett's Elizabeth I isn't quite like any queen yet to be put on screen.

As it happens, she's the first of two Elizabeth Tudors filmmakers will encounter this season, with the ginger-haired Blanchett's spindly, parched ruler existing at a mighty remove from the matronly, aspidochelone monarch played by Judi Dench in "Shakespeare in Love."

The movie is never without interest as it traces one cunning and violent intrigue after another in a court rank with malice and sweat. But it's also too self-conscious in its desire to leave most English costume dramas, well, in the closet.

Certainly, few doublet-and-hose movies feature such an international spread. The director, Shekhar

REVIEW

Kapur, was born and raised in India, and was a Hindi cinema mainstay before making his name in the West four years ago with the controversial "Bandit Queen."

Blanchett and co-star Geoffrey Rush (an Academy Award-winner for "Shine") are Australian, while the supporting cast includes such disparate figures as former French soccer star Eric Cantona, French screen actress Fanny Ardant and England's own Sir John Gielgud, in a wry cameo as the pope.

A multinational cast working for a multiethnic creative team is, of course, laudable, and just one of the ways in which the modernity of "Elizabeth" cannot be impugned. The problem is that it co-exists with a showy, highly resistible artiness that may put off as many moviegoers as it attracts.

One minute the screen blurs and bleeds to white; the next Kapur indulges in a horror movie technique or two that suggest a corseted equivalent of "Halloween."

"I do not like wars; they have uncertain outcomes," says Elizabeth, but they forever rage around her, whether as internecine squabbles within the court or sizable rebellions from the French and Spanish camp.

As Michael Hirst's script sees it, Elizabeth's story is a journey toward confidence — from the so-called "bastard queen" spat upon near the start to the celebrated Virgin Queen who gives up her lover (Joseph Fiennes' bland Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester) and even her hair on the way to projecting a new self as the Gloriana of legend.

The movie seems intended as a star-making role for Blanchett, who co-starred with Ralph Fiennes in last year's little-seen "Oscar and Lucinda."

Like its star, "Elizabeth" is smart and savvy and more than a shade too knowing. If it weren't so determined to be cool, it might even generate some heat.

•Trivia

whatever the case may be?

Not all sobriquets are flattering, of course. Among circles of friends, you are more likely to meet a "Stinky" or a "Melonhead" than you are to find a "Cool Papa."

An interesting designation from history is "The Impaler." This is what the 15th-century Walachian prince Vlad IV was called. Apparently, those who displeased Vlad would find themselves impaled on iron spikes.

In entertainment, there have been many people with colorful epithets. Jenny Lind was "The Swedish Nightingale." Lon Chaney was "The Man with a Thousand Faces." Helen Hayes was "The First Lady of American Theater." Pauly Shore is "The Least Talented Person Ever to Star in a Film."

For this week's trivia quiz, the topic is nicknames and/or other designations of famous people.

1. Which U.S. president was known as "Old Rough and Ready"?

2. Who is "The Velvet Fog"?

3. What baseball player was called "The Wild Horse of the Osage"?

4. Which English monarch was given the epithet "The Unready"?

5. Screen actress Clara Bow gained what flattering sobriquet in the 1920s?

6. What nickname did golfer Tony Lama gain?

7. President Ronald Reagan's friends call him by what nickname?

8. Hockey goalie Lorne Worsley was known by what nickname?

9. Who was "The Virgin Queen" of England?

10. German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel gained what epithet for his military tactics in World War II?

ANSWERS: 1. Zachary Taylor. The nickname came from his soldiers when he was a general in the cavalry. 2. Singer Mel Tormé. 3. St. Louis Cardinal John Martin, who was better known by his other nickname, "Pepper." He apparently was a wild man on and off the field. 4. Ethelred II, who ruled from 978-1016. According to my source, "The Unready" was a historical mistranslation and he should be known as "The Ill-Advised." Either way, I wouldn't put it on my resume. 5. "The It Girl," because she had "it." 6. "Champagne" Tony. Not a bad nickname. It beats "Tap Water Tony." 7. "Dutch." 8. "Gump." 9. Elizabeth I, who ruled from 1558-1603. 10. "The Desert Fox," which is another impressive handle.

Book celebrates history of Cahokia

Donated photos are part of 'Cahokia: Images of America'

"It is not always the great events which are important in the life of a community. It is the people who truly shape the community. The example of church and community leaders, the daily education and care of children, the routine life of community members, the celebrations of special occasions...these are the real events."

— Foreword to "Cahokia: Images of America"

By Jason White
Staff writer

History. For many, the word brings to mind endless gray pages of facts, figures and names that are forgotten soon after being memorized.

But a new book about Cahokia puts a human face on the oldest town in the St. Louis region.

Cahokia Public Library staff member Dee Reed spent three months gathering photos from area residents, archives and libraries for "Cahokia: Images of America," a 128-page book that features 236 photos of the people, events and buildings that have shaped the village's past.

"People are just enjoying it for what it is — a snapshot of the community for 300 years," Reed said last week.

"What I felt when I did it was that it would be a wonderful uplift for the community to have their story told in a book."

Dee Reed

"What I felt when I did it was that it would be a wonderful uplift for the community to have their story told in a book."

The book is divided into seven chapters on churches, schools, weddings, children, families, community and celebrations.

"There's little things in all the pictures that are just really fun to look at," Reed said.

"I know that it's not all-comprehensive," she said. "I'm sure there's a lot more pictures out there."

Reed said she considers herself a "compiler," not an author.

"I took what people gave me and compiled it into what this book is," she said.

Once word got out about the book,

Reed received 400-450 photographs.

"I am so grateful to everybody," she said.

She hopes that the enthusiasm for the book will carry over to the Tricentennial celebration next year.

"The more people we can get involved with that, the better off we'll be," she said.

Cahokia, founded by French-Canadian missionaries from Quebec in 1699, is the oldest permanent European settlement in the Mississippi Valley.

The village is home to Jarrot Mansion, the state's oldest brick building; the 258-year-old Cahokia Courthouse and Holy Family Log Church, home to the oldest Catholic parish in the United States.

"We always knew we had important historical treasures, but when you live with them every day I think you lose perspective," Reed said.

Reed said she felt proud to see a sign at a bookstore that read "No. 2 Bestseller" next to the book.

"I hope people will feel the pride that I feel," Reed said. "It's a community pride that we can all look back to celebrate the people who come before us and the people who will come after us."

"Cahokia: Images of America" is available for $18.99 at Waldenbooks, Borders, Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows gift shop, the Forget-Me-Not Shop in Belleville, Fisher's Pharmacy in Cahokia and the Cahokia Public Library.

The book is part of the Images of America series published by Arcadia Publishing of Charleston, S.C. The company has published about 400 books on towns and regions throughout the United States and recently began seeking Midwestern authors.

Tamburitzans return to GCHS

Duquesne troupe to perform Nov. 21

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Tamburitzans are coming back soon.

The troupe, composed of about 40 students from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, will bring its exuberant renditions of Eastern European folk songs and dance to the Granite City High School auditorium, 3101 Madison Avenue, at 7 p.m. Nov. 21.

Tickets for the event are $7 and are available at Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus Business Office. Tickets may also be obtained through Norma Bellecoff, a former Tamburitzan and Duquesne University alumni; she can be reached at 877-2161. Tickets are also available at the Croation Home, 876-9368. Proceeds from the concert help fund scholarships for students attending Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus.

The Tamburitzans, formed in 1937, present one of the longest-running live stage shows in North America. The group, which performs about 80 shows annually, takes its name from the stringed instrument tamburitza.

Performers dress in authentic costumes depicting peasants of several Eastern European countries. The performance itself features songs in nearly a dozen different languages and traditional Eastern European folk dances.

Most of the group's performers started in other ethnic performing groups in their own communities or have been performing arts students since early childhood. During their senior year in high school, applicants audition for a spot in the ensemble.

Those picked head off for a three-week production camp in mid-July at the Kiski Preparatory School, about 15 miles from Pittsburgh.

Members receive scholarships for their participation in the group.

For more information, contact Sharon Owca at 931-0600, extension 6612.

Members of the Duquesne University Tamburitzans display their strength and tenacity as they perform a suite of Macedonian dances. The troupe will perform Nov. 21 at Granite City High School.

•Horoscope•

health issues require second opinions and persistence. Pending negotiations favor you, though it may not seem so in the beginning.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). An exaggerated view of what a lover should do for you may bring disappointment ultimately. Be reasonable, and you'll feel fulfilled. Get ahead in work this afternoon, or you'll be behind next week.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your creative energy mixes well with a partner's business savvy. A major goal can be reached if you focus on a more realistic use of your time. Your suggestions are taken by the wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Releasing your energy from a person will actually draw him or her closer to you. Success in love comes when you least expect it. Matters of speculation make you a competitive business entity—try research, and track trends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Creative ventures, performances and written documents fare well in the next three days. A financial wish comes true with hard work. A romance develops naturally, so don't feel you need to force things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A collaboration leads to a lucrative brainstorm. Your love affair could be the talk of the town. A mentor is needed to accomplish what you wish for. Expert advice helps you save a relationship seemingly on the rocks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Affluent friends are not as critical as you think they are. You are accepted everywhere if you choose to feel comfortable. You can avoid a misunderstanding by informing a loved one of your whereabouts.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Find a partner with the same money sensibility. See creative projects through to the end, no matter who advises against it. Financial possibilities multiply. Singles could find love with the boy or girl next door.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Love is more exciting with an element of uncertainty—play hard to get. If a promotion is not offered to you where you work now, look around—a different employer might make special efforts to entice you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Chemistry is electric between you and fellow water signs (Cancer and Scorpio)—attraction is undeniable. Serious discussions have a stabilizing influence on your financial decisions.

Reno world-class star

International film star Jean Reno ("Ronin," "Godzilla") was international long before he ever became a film star.

The son of Spanish parents chased out of their homeland by a fascist dictator came into the world shortly after World War II in Casablanca, Morocco, the celebrated international crossroads immortalized on screen by Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman.

Young Juan Moreno roamed the exotic urban oasis in North Africa, speaking in multiple tongues, learning a different language at home, at school and at the movies, where everything he saw was a foreign film.

"In those days the cinema for me was John Wayne, Jean Gabin, Jean-Paul Belmondo, Alain Delon, William Holden, James Dean, Marlon Brando," Reno says.

Nicknames abound in show biz

But 'Cool Papa' — as in Bell — would be hard to top

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

I believe "Cool Papa" is the ultimate nickname. It would be hard to top.

"Cool Papa" was what they called James Bell, the great Negro League baseball player known for his speed who started his career with the St. Louis Stars. He received the nickname because he did not get nervous before big games. Who wouldn't want to be called "Cool Papa" or "Cool Mama," (See TRIVIA, Page 1D)

'Waterboy' is all Sandler

Unless his funny faces amuse you, movie is a bore

By Chris Waldvogel
Staff writer

How much of Adam Sandler can you take?

If skits on "Saturday Night Live" seemed achingly long when he was on stage, you had better skip his latest movie. But if watching Sandler make funny faces and stutter with a Creole accent is your idea of a good time, "The Waterboy" is for you.

Sandler's character, Bobby Boucher, gets no respect. A socially inept 31-year-old,

REVIEW

Bobby lives under the protective thumb of his mother (Kathy Bates) while striving to provide area collegiate players with "quality H2O."

But the players tease him mercilessly. They crash full speed into him and his water table, call him names and even spit in his coolers.

After getting fired by cocky Cougars University of Louisiana coach Red Beaulieu, (Jerry Reed) Bobby tries to find a job elsewhere.

He makes a desperate attempt to be a waterboy for his hero, a wrestler named "Captain Insano," by calling a live TV show. The captain not only turns Bobby down, but also embarrasses him on the air.

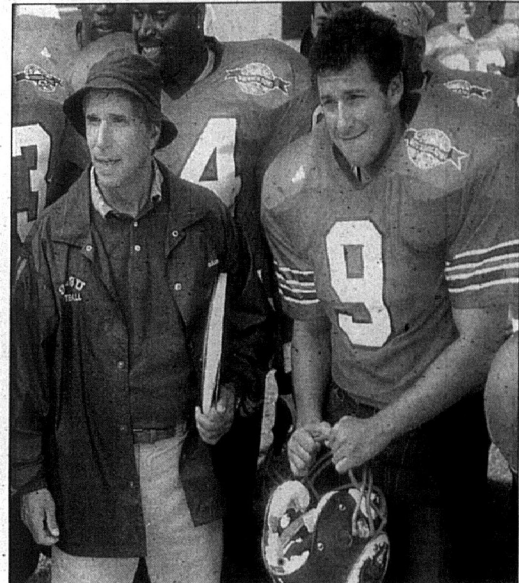

Bobby finally gets his break when Coach Klein (Henry Winkler) offers him a job as the waterboy for the SCLSU Mud Dogs.

When members from the team begin to pick on Bobby, Klein tells him to stand up for himself. Bobby uses all his bottled rage and puts one of his tormentors flat on his back. Klein has just found a new linebacker.

Bobby becomes the heart and soul of the team, leading it to an appearance in the Bourbon Bowl and a faceoff with Red.

Although featuring a plot full of clichés and scenes we have all seen before, "The Waterboy" is not devoid of charm or laughs. Two jokes — Bobby's vicious tackling and his devotion for his mother — get old.

But Bobby's confrontation with his mother, during which he reveals he has fooled around with his girlfriend (Fairuza Balk), proves hilarious. Scenes with Sportscenter's Dan Patrick — especially him announcing Bobby's record of 16 sacks in a game — bring smiles, too.

Henry Winkler and Adam Sandler in a scene from the Buena Vista Pictures' film, "The Waterboy."

Some of the gridiron's greatest also make appearances. The film features good scenes with former New York Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor, former San Diego Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts, NFL coaches Jimmy Johnson and Bill Cowher and announcer Brent Musburger.

But like most feature films with cast members from SNL, this movie should have been a skit.

"The Waterboy," is a Touchstone pictures release with Frank Corsi directing. Tim Herlihy, whose credits include "Billy Madison," "Happy Gilmore," and the "Wedding Singer," co-wrote the film with Sandler.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, NOV. 12
The moon in Virgo along with ambitious Mars heightens our attention and allows us to focus in on detailed information. Everyone will be motivated, thinking creatively and making plans to improve upon his or her financial outlook. Any investment in your future now will increase your sense of security and pay off sooner than you might think.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 12). You excel where others (maybe even you) have failed. It's a year of redefinition. Don't accept last year's standards. There are ways of doing more than you dreamed, but you must begin to embrace change.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You have a way of getting around the rules. Powerful physical attraction blossoms into a passionate romance. Focus on style, variety and new opportunities — a lifestyle turnaround comes from this new energy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Accurate assumptions put you ahead in romance and business. Find something to love about that difficult person. A loved one's dark side is heavily outweighed by incredible compassion toward the needy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You may be the envy of friends. Develop new habits and ways to deal with stress.

A million lights ready to shine

Way of Lights display will open Nov. 19

The winter holiday season is a special one at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows.

A week before Thanksgiving, the Shrine comes aglow with a million white lights decorating a one-and-a-half mile route through the Shrine grounds. As visitors drive through this scenic fantasy, they wind past electro-art sculptures and life-size figures depicting the Christmas story. New this year is a multi-colored Town of Bethlehem and a 26-foot Year of Love electro-art sculpture.

The Way of Lights is open every night from 5 to 10 p.m., beginning Nov. 19.

Tickets are available for horse-drawn carriages and open-air guided tram tours, weather permitting. Call for reservations. At the Visitors Center, decorated Christmas trees are artistically displayed in a variety of settings depicting "People of Love." The Christmas Village features plenty of fun activities including puppet shows, caricaturists, street performers, coloring, Christmas videos, face painting and souvenir photos.

Children visiting the Shrine during the Way of Lights are especially fond of the Children's Theatre and the live miniature animal display. Caroling and other seasonal programs are featured, making a holiday visit to the Shrine a special event. The indoor display is open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. but is closed Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Admission is free. For more information, contact the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, 397-6700 (TTY) or St. Louis, (314)241-3400 (TTY).
